

Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 10 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:

Another frost overnight. Milder Monday with rain later.

This Evening and Tonight:

Mostly cloudy but generally dry with the odd clear spell. Less cold than previous nights but still with a frost in places. Some patchy fog forming. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Monday:

Monday dry initially with patchy frost and fog clearing. Some brighter spells developing. Then becoming cloudy and windy with outbreaks of rain arriving from the northwest by evening. Feeling milder. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:

Tuesday, windy with rain clearing to colder and drier conditions later with light winds. Overnight frost. Wednesday, cloudy with rain and becoming windy. Thursday, breezy with early showers, drier later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.